To Senate Seat

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — James B. Pearson, 41, a Republican-attorney, was named to the U.S. Senate Wednesday to succeed Sen. Andrew F. Schoepel, also Republican, who died Jan. 21.

Gov. John Anderson, in announcing the appointment, said he will seek election to a second term as governor this year. There had been speculation he would run for Schoepel's unexpired Senate term.

Pearson, who described himself as conservative, will run for the unexpired four years of Schoepel's term.

Judge Bans N.Y.
Central Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal judge Wednesday banned the Transport Workers Union from striking against the New York Central Railroad, advising that "labor relations cannot be advanced by parties pursuing the law of the jungle."

District Judge Archie O. Dawson's injunction here followed a similar one in Philadelphia that prohibited the TWU from striking the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The two lines have announced plans to merge and the union said it would strike at midnight Saturday unless it received guarantees of job security for employees affected by the merger.

Three Survive
Iran Plane Crash

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Two of the three survivors from a crashed American military plane were flown to Tehran Wednesday after a dramatic rescue operation on the snow-clogged ledges of 12,000-foot Mt. Zardkuh in southwest Iran.

One of the four men found alive at the scene died, the U.S. military mission here announced. He was Maj. Donald A. Carder, of Rayville, Mo., pilot of the single engine Otter that crashed in the rugged Zagrus Mountains Saturday.

One survivor was reported still at the scene with the U.S. rescue team, which pressed a search for a fifth man on the plane who is missing.

Army Will Cut
Overseas Duty

WASHINGTON (AP) — With its forces now built up, the Army said Wednesday it will start this summer to cut back on extra overseas duty ordered for thousands of men during the Berlin crisis.

This step marks the first major retrenchment from stopgap measures taken last fall to bring about a quick buildup of U.S. military strength in the face of Soviet threats to move against Berlin.

Army spokesmen said they were unable to estimate how many soldiers are affected.

The action will save men extra overseas time ranging from a few weeks to six months.

Western Electric
Workers Strike

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — The Communication Workers of America's installers union for Western Electric Co. left their jobs at telephone installations in four Midwest states Wednesday over a nationwide contract dispute.

Telephone service was not expected to be affected unless other CWA locals honored the installers' picket lines, an official of Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. here said.

The walkout was unauthorized by the company said.

Says GOP Must Show Gains

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., said Wednesday that if the Republicans don't make gains in this year's congressional elections "we're going to have to hunt for somebody to run for president" in 1964.

He said this was his comment when asked who would be the next GOP standard-bearer.

Morton, former Republican national chairman, said the party has been outmaneuvered and placed "in the position of being agin' everything." He said the GOP needs to develop more positive attitudes.

State Moves To Prevent Flooding

HARRISBURG (AP) — The state is doing everything possible to combat a serious mine flooding problem in upper Luzerne County, Mines Secretary Lewis E. Evans said Wednesday.

He said his department already has completed arrangements for a meeting at the scene Thursday with the Department of Forests and Waters and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The abandoned mine in the Durycia-Pittston area, is owned by the Pennsylvania Coal Co.

FBI Nabs Two In
Brodheadsville
Bank Robbery

THE FBI YESTERDAY announced the arrest of two of the three armed gunmen who robbed the Monroe Security Bank & Trust Co., branch bank at Brodheadsville last Oct. 20 and escaped with $8,659.54.

Special Agent Fred A. Frohbose, of the Philadelphia office, announced the arrest of Everett Williams Jr., at Belzoni, Miss., Tuesday night and Otis Zellner Jr., arrested at Macon, Ga., yesterday.

Migrant Workers

Both are migrant workers. Williams was arrested at his home town of Belzoni and is described as 21 years of age. He had worked as a migrant farm laborer at a farm near Brodheadsville last October when the robbery occurred. Zellner, 22, is single. He is being held on $25,000 bond.

Williams was the first arrest in connection with the holdup of the West End Branch of the Bank. He was, according to the

Lawrence
Budget Due
For Approval

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Lawrence's $1 billion General Fund budget for 1962-63 received routine preliminary approval in the House Wednesday.

The House advanced the budget package for a final vote next week. The Senate did not meet Wednesday. The House adjourned until Monday.

Meanwhile, St. Francis College of Loretto, Elizabethtown College and Keystone Junior College, La Plume, won the drawing to divide House Speaker H. G. Andrews' $1,000 from the special session on congressional reapportionment which ended Monday.

Each will receive a check for $333.33 from the speaker.

"The chair (speaker) will retain the odd penny," Andrews advised the House.

It took about one-half hour to skim through the 68 bills which would appropriate $1,000,958,666 for the general operations of state government in the 1962-63 fiscal year beginning July 1.

The constitution requires that bills be considered on three separate days before being given a final vote in each House. The initial consideration Wednesday, without debate, was routine.

Philadelphia Demos
Split Over Dilworth

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Philadelphia Democratic organization indicated Wednesday it is out to block Mayor Richardson Dilworth from the party's nomination for governor.

Top Democratic policy makers came to grips with the slate-making problem at a three-hour meeting which failed to reach any agreement on candidates.

"We made some progress," said State Chairman Otis B. Morse. "We will meet again Feb. 14."

Morse declined to discuss what went on at the meeting except to note that the names of "eight or 10" potential candidates were discussed.

Nation's Job
Picture Is Improving

WASHINGTON (AP) — A better-than-usual January job picture dropped the nation's idle rate below 6 per cent for the first time in 16 months.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg gave the latest job report in testimony to the Senate-House Economic Committee Wednesday. He reported the seasonally adjusted rate of unemployment dropped to 5.8 per cent.

The new figures, the labor secretary said, confirm President Kennedy's estimate that the United States is "in the midst of a vigorous economic recovery, with production and employment reaching new highs."

The improvement was recorded despite a sizable drop in employment and rise in unemployment. The significant thing is that the two totals failed to change as much as past experience indicated they would, despite bad January weather and a post-Christmas season business lag.

Goldberg reported that: Employment dropped 1.4 million to 65,068,000 — a record high for January despite the decline. The figure represents 600,000 more jobs than a year ago. A December-January decline of 1.7 million had been anticipated.

FBI, the man carrying a sawed-off shotgun during the robbery. The other gunmen carried pistols.

Williams reportedly is not one of the original three suspects named during the early days of the investigation. The FBI said, however, that Williams was employed as a migrant worker in the area at the time of the holdup.

Months Of Work

Frohbose said Williams' and Zellner's arrests culminated months of joint investigation by the FBI agents and the Pennsylvania State Police. The State Police investigation was under the direction of Major John J. Pezzant, District 3 Commander, Wyoming, Pa., and Lt. Louis Shuppick, Troop A-3 of Hazleton.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Carlton M. O'Malley Jr., of Scranton authorized the filing of a complaint against Williams on Monday alleging Williams participated in the bank robbery. A complaint was filed for Williams by the FBI before U. S. Commissioner Harry A. Kolb, Scranton, on Tuesday and a warrant was issued for the arrest.

Frohbose stated that if convicted of the Federal Bank Robbery statute, the men arrested face a possible sentence of a $10,000 fine or 20 years imprisonment, or both.

Second Holdup

The October 1961 holdup was the second time in a little over a year that the bank in Brodheadsville was robbed. In May of 1960, two men escaped with $34,238. The pair, arrested a few days later, were identified as Ralph D. Castellano, 59, Moonachie, N. J., and his nephew, Henry D. Castellano, 31, Englewood, N. J. Both pleaded guilty to the first bank robbery.

Branch manager Anton Vogler, of East Stroudsburg, and teller Ada Sommers, of Stroudsburg, were in the bank each time it was held up.

There were no customers in the bank at the time, a bright sunny morning, but a man and woman entered as the three holdup men left. The robbers nodded to the couple, and one spoke a pleasant "good morning" before climbing into a car and driving off.

At first, it was reported that the bank's loss was at $20,000 pending a complete audit. The FBI announcement of the arrest, however, placed the amount at $8,659.54. There was no mention of recovery of any money.

Green At Head

But there were signs of a stop-Dilworth movement, headed by U.S. Rep. William J. Green Jr., Philadelphia Democratic chairman.

Green himself lent strong support to the speculation prior to the policy session. He declared: "If I had a favorite in Philadelphia it would be my good friend (Lt. Gov.) John Morgan Davis."

Commenting on that following the meeting, Davis said: "I'd consider it a great privilege to be the candidate."

He added, however, he would not consider running without organization backing.

Clark Leaves

U.S. Sen. Joseph S. Clark left the meeting at 3:30 p.m., two hours after it began. He said he had to give a talk elsewhere. He declined to say whether he was backed for re-election. He already has announced his candidacy.

"I supported Dick (Dilworth)," he declared, when asked what went on at the meeting. He refused to comment further.

Dilworth emerged from the meeting 10 minutes later. His expression was non-committal. He declined to comment, saying "the only fair thing to do" was to let Morse act as spokesman for the meeting.

Others Mentioned

Besides Dilworth and Davis, the only names prominently mentioned as possible candidates for the Democratic nomination are Judge Clinton B. Palmer, Northampton County, Judge Warren Hess, Berks County, and former Lt. Gov. Roy E. Furman.

Rusk Claims OAS Action
As Blow To Communism

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk told the inter-American foreign ministers Wednesday he sees Cuba eventually released from "its nightmare and returned to the family of American states."

Prime Minister Fidel Castro's delegation left the 10-day old conference in a huff, boycotting two general sessions that formalized an indictment of communism's intrusions in Western Hemisphere affairs.

President Osvaldo Dorticos of Cuba told newsmen the outcome meant "a defeat for U.S. imperialism" and transformation of the 21-nation Organization of American States into a political-military bloc subject to U.S. interests.

Rusk Reports

Rusk spoke at a plenary session which adopted a final report on a series of resolutions, including the hotly debated decision calling for expulsion of the Castro regime by the OAS from councils of the inter-American family. With Cuba absent, the vote was 20-0.

"We have agreed on a very great deal," Rusk said.

"We have had some difficulty on only one point; how to give effect to the simple fact that we all recognize, namely that the official character and policies of the present government of Cuba are incompatible with the presence and participation of that government in the principal business of the Organization of American States."

Crucial Vote

The crucial vote for booting the Castro regime from the OAS came in a committee session that began Tuesday night and lasted long past midnight. The vote was 14-1, with six abstentions.

Cuba cast the negative vote. The abstainers, whose governments represent more than two-thirds of Latin America's people, were Argentina, Brazil, Bolivia, Chile, Ecuador and Mexico.

Lined up with the United States for the resolution were Colombia, Costa Rica, Dominican Republic, El Salvador, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Uruguay and Venezuela.

A U.S. source said Rusk's team neared unanimity at one time. It won approval of five members of the six-nation bloc favoring a soft approach on condition that one word be changed. They suggested the word "exclude" be changed to a phrase saying Castro's activities were "contrary to participation" in inter-American councils. Hard-liners such as Colombia refused to go along.

Other resolutions adopted at the committee session, with Cuba the dissenting vote unless otherwise indicated, included:

The most stinging denunciation of Communist intrusion in the Western world, ever adopted by any inter-American body 20-1.

Expulsion of Cuba from the Inter-American Defense Board, in which it had not actually participated for 10 months, 20-1.

An endorsement of President Kennedy's $20-billion Alliance for Progress program, 20-1.

Kennedy Farm Plan
Gets Mixed Reaction

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy proposed a new farm program Wednesday that would take the government out of much of agriculture unless farmers accepted controls tight enough to halt production of costly surpluses.

The program, outlined in a special message to Congress, ran into immediate and violent opposition in some quarters. Even those who said they liked it predicted it would face stiff opposition in Congress. Generally, Democrats spoke favorably of it and Republicans unfavorably.

Cites Core'on

Charles B. Shuman, president of the influential American Farm Bureau Federation, said the Kennedy proposals would attempt to coerce farmers into accepting controls they did not want.

Projected as an "A B C D" farm program for the 1960s—abundance, balance, conservation and development—the Kennedy plan featured much tougher restrictions on production of wheat, feed grains and milk—the three big surplus products of the moment.

Producers would have to accept these new controls at referendums or lose important government price supports for wheat and feed grains and accept much lower supports for dairy products.

Saves Billions

The new commodity controls would be designed to cut $3 billion off costs of farm aid programs during the next four years. Without the controls, the programs would cost an estimated more than $12 billion during that period.

"Our two goals — improving farm income and reducing costs — can both be achieved only if farm output can be reduced below needs for several years and then allowed to increase at a rate equal to the growth of demand," Kennedy said.

Government surpluses now in storage would fill the intermediate gaps.

Sharp Opposition

The parts that met the sharpest opposition were proposals to abandon supports and to authorize the government to dump large quantities of its surplus grains on markets if controls for these crops were defeated.

Shuman said use of government surpluses in this way would be for the purpose of compelling farmers to accept controls. This, he said, would "make a mockery of the proposed democratic referendum."

Administration leaders said present law permits the government to sell crop surpluses when controls are voted down. But such sales could not be made at prices as low as presumably they could be made under the Kennedy program. The government seldom if ever used this authority.

Veteran Republican Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont led a number of dairy state legislators in declaring war against the proposed dairy controls. Dairy production has never been under regulation from a volume standpoint.

Numerous Charges

The administration plan would not change present programs for tobacco, peanuts and rice.

It envisions a change in the cotton program designed to help make this crop more competitive in world markets without the use of expensive government export subsidies. But details of the cotton program have not yet been worked out.

The plan would authorize production allotments for turkeys and turkey hatching eggs. The turkey industry has been troubled by overproduction and low prices.

Similar controls for other commodities not now under restrictions may be proposed later if producer groups recommend them.

Leaders Indicated Congress would lose no time in taking up the new program. Rep. Harold D. Cooley, D-N.C., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, introduced the administration bill and scheduled hearings on it starting Feb. 6. Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman was listed as the first witness.

Maximum Use

Kennedy said his total program envisioned maximum use of the nation's agricultural abundance to raise dietary standards at home and to help the needy abroad.

This goal would involve expansion of a food stamp plan, the school lunch program, direct distribution of food to the needy, and expansion of the food-for-peace program, including U.S. participation in a world food bank.

In addition, his program would seek to divert 50 million acres of cropland to nonfarm uses, including great belts around urban areas, parks, recreation, wildlife habitat, forests and grazing.

In theory, diversion of this land would bring in time a balance between farm production and demands. Government controls could be abandoned. Further, the President said, it would provide new sources of income for a rural economy now largely dependent on agriculture for an inadequate livelihood.

Stroudsburg's Troop B Reopens Enlistment Drive

TROOP "B", 3rd Recon, 56th Army Reserve, Stroudsburg, will re-open its enlistment program. Capt. Charles Wilkinson, commanding officer, announced last night.

Enlistments will be accepted under the two special active duty programs. The first program is open to men 17 to 18 and on half years old. The second is for men 18 and one half to 25 years old.

The six month program of the first group enables the man to spend six months on active duty and the remainder of his obligated military service at home. Upon returning home he will spend three years with the local reserve unit and four and a half in the Stand-by Reserve. This will complete his eight years of obligated time.

Under this program, active duty will be delayed up to one year to allow a youth to complete his high school education.

The second plan allows the enlistee to spend six months on active duty, and five and a half years in the Ready Reserve. This period will complete his obligated time of six years.

First Sgt. Donald Smith said, "Any young man wishing more information on either of the plans should stop in at the local army, on Bank Alley, Stroudsburg, any Monday night or call HA1-4210 on Monday night."

He added, "There are only a few vacancies in the unit and we will operate on a first come, first serve basis."

Purse Strings

The proposed law which would give the President the authority to raise or lower the basic income tax rate, on his decision alone, is destined to encounter mighty tough sledding in Congress. And it should.

The arguments against this idea have nothing whatever to do with the name or party or programs of the man who happens to hold the office at any given time. Presidential power is enormous. It has been vastly extended in recent times, primarily because of war and threat of war.

But there is one curb on this power which stands solidly in the way of possible excesses. It lies in Congress' control of the purse strings, which is, beyond doubt, one of the most important of Congress' Constitutional rights, duties, and obligations.

It is argued, in favor of the proposal, that it would make possible immediate action (so would a dictatorship) when a change in tax rates was considered advisable in order to meet a condition of inflation or deflation. But speed is not always a virtue, and often it is a vice. No individual is the possessor of wisdom.

If a President — any President, of any party, and with any philosophy — considers an increase or decrease in the income tax desirable, let him go to Congress with his plan. There its merits and demerits can be thrashed out, and a decision reached — not by one man but by hundreds. The time spent will be spent well and soundly — and a fundamental provision of the Constitution will be preserved.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Do You Know This Man?

A young man lived with his parents in a public housing development. He attended public school, rode the free school bus, and participated in the free lunch program. He entered the army, then upon discharge retained his national service insurance. He then enrolled in the state university, working part time in the state capitol to supplement his GI education check.

Upon graduation he married a public health nurse and bought a farm with an FHA loan; and then obtained an RFC loan to go into business. A baby was born in the county hospital. He bought a ranch with the aid of the veterans' land program and obtained emergency feed from the government.

Later he put part of his land in the soil bank, and the payments soon paid off his farm and ranch. His father and mother lived very comfortably on the ranch on their social security and old-age assistance checks. REA lines supplied electricity; the government helped clear his land.

The county agent showed him how to terrace it; then the government built him a fish pond and stocked it with fish. The government guaranteed him a sale for his farm products at highest prices.

Books from the public library were delivered to his door. He banked money which a government agency insured. His children grew up, entered public schools, ate free lunches, rode free school buses, played in public parks, swam in public pools, and joined the FFA. He owned an automobile so he favored the Federal highway program.

He signed a petition seeking Federal assistance in developing an industrial project to help the economy of his area. He was a leader in obtaining the new post office and Federal building, and went to Washington with a group to ask the government to build a great dam costing millions so that the area could get "cheap electricity".

He petitioned the government to give the local air base to the county. He was also a leader in the movement to get his specific type of farming special tax write-offs and exemptions. Of course, he belonged to several farmers' organizations, but denied that they were pressure groups.

Then, one day, he wrote to his Congressman: "I wish to protest these excessive governmental expenditures and attendant high taxes. I believe in rugged individualism. I think people should stand on their own two feet without expecting handouts."

"I am opposed to all socialistic trends, and I demand a return to the principles of our Constitution and the policies of States Rights."

'We Just Didn't Know Our Own Strength!'

The Pennsylvania Story

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg—The great and renowned prognosticators of old Br'er Groundhog as "Groundhog Day" dawns tomorrow will once again overshadow the prognostications of the official U.S. Weather Bureau insofar as what's ahead weatherwise is concerned.

Up in Punxsutawney in Jefferson County the internationally known Punxsutawney Groundhog will be the scene of great high-hatted deliberations as the "watch" begins as to whether the furred nut sees his shadow and prophesies six more weeks of hard winter weather.

To invoke the line of the pun, it's an overshadowing event. However Punxsutawney isn't the only spot where overshadowing seemingly is the order of the day.

It's happening quite generally throughout the state. For example, right now the big thing the high-hatted gentry in the political world are watching, insofar as the Keystone State is concerned, centers around what's to be done on the candidate front insofar as the two top offices of Governor and U.S. Senator are concerned.

This is the year, too, half of the 50 members of the State Senate head for the hills also seeking constituent support. In a nutshell, then, this year the whopping total of 235 lawmaking seats are on the block for filling by local voters only.

The reaction of many of course is simply one of—shucks, only one seat is involved insofar as I'm concerned, what's the difference?

That one seat is important— and just how important is illustrated by the fact that in the State Senate today during this full-blooded "control," by virtue of one seat, could be spelled out in favor of either the Democratic Lawrence Administration or anti-administration Republicans.

It's in the Senate, it will be recalled, that there is an even 25-25 membership split—without either side having the decisive button to push. That's what can happen. That's what has happened. That's the importance of "only one seat".

But the overriding importance of all this actually is reflected in so-called "administration programs"—how well they fare insofar as necessary legislative approval is concerned.

The new governor to be elected this year will be faced with a Legislature elected by Pennsylvanians that will be either (a) with the administration, (b) against the administration, or (c) split down the middle and on the fence as is the case with the current Legislature.

What happens on the legislative front actually will have much to do with spelling success or failure for Pennsylvania's next governor to be elected this year.

Tomorrow may be the day of the big hoop-de-doo up Punxsutawney-way on the groundhog front—weatherwise; it's perhaps most fortunate there isn't a similar furred prognosticator on the political front!

Beer distributors in county stopped deliveries on Wednesday to aid in the defense of the county. By defeating one day delivery much rubber, equipment and gasoline would be saved.

Joe DiMaggio was voted the "outstanding athlete of 1941" by the Philadelphia Sports Writers Association.

William Maratonik of Brunswick, N.J., was killed instantly when his car skidded on icy Route 611, just north of Portland, and crashed into a truck traveling towards Portland. Three others in the car were injured slightly.

Competition For The Weatherman

The prognosticators in this case have about as much true windage as old Br'er Groundhog—and all of this unquestionably is serving to overshadow an event certainly of equal importance.

We refer specifically to Pennsylvania's legislative branch, where for the most part the hoopla is missing—and yet paradoxically where more power and authority rests than in the executive branch; where the legislative branch can throw a governor out of office!

You wouldn't believe it perhaps, but an "overhaul" of Pennsylvania's legislative branch is in order this year.

This is the year all 210 members of the State House of Representatives run madly to the hustings and beat the constituent bushes in favor of their election or re-election.

Off The Record

The record books will never show the hours local and area police officials put in attempting to locate the whereabouts of Edward Howard Mapes who is sought in the connection with the murders of his wife and four-month-old daughter.

Men like Stroudsburg Police Chief John Tretheway, East Stroudsburg Police Chief Travis Seese, Monroe Game Protector John Doehling, District Attorney James Marsh, their efficient staffs, State Police and Federal Bureau of Investigation, dug around the clock trying to collect data and information on the whereabouts of Maps.

Thus far all has been to no avail as like the wind — the local Artist-Sculpture vanished, it seems, into thin air. Maps disappearance is either a stroke of uncanny luck or the man just isn't around to be found. If long hours and diligent detective work was the answer Maps would be in custody today and the now unfounded stories about him would be partly cleared up.

We were fortunate enough to sit in local police stations as they checked out part of 400 reports on the Maps case. For example, a woman hadn't reported to work for a week at an area company. A company official took three hours to sift through more than 500 employee time cards before coming up with the absentee. All told it took 11 hours as police and the firm checked out the woman's actions the past week.

This is only one of the many long chores that the local gendarmes pinned down and found to be false. There were countless others—Maps was seen at the East Stroudsburg Elks; he headed south; called up this person, and that individual; and so on and so on.

It didn't make any difference how untrue the police thought the tips were. Their duty was to run them down. Believe me John Q. Taxpayer they did no matter what the hour of the night or day was.

These men in blue, grey, black, green and plain clothes have done a magnificent job despite being unable to reach the ultimate goal — the apprehension of Maps.

As we said before luck or fate—whatever you care to call it—has played an important role in listing Edward Maps among the missing. The law enforcement bodies haven't been as fortunate in tossing their sevens and eights. Give them time, though. They will.

Where Are 375 U.S. Forgotten Heroes?

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington—The second round of the Senate Armed Services Subcommittee's hearings on the muzzling of military officers could easily turn out to be even more sensational than the first. This phase of the investigation, exploring the Pentagon's troop information and education program, is going to raise the dynamite-loaded question of the fate of Americans taken prisoner during the Korean war who are still unaccounted for.

These "forgotten" heroes number about 375. They are carried on the Defense Department's official rolls as "missing" and "presumed to be dead."

But are they?

Inside You And Yours

Swollen Breasts

By Burton H. Fern, M.D.
But, Doctor, doesn't breast pain mean cancer?

No! Any breast swelling hurts, even normal swelling. Growing adolescent breasts stretch skin and fat tenderly.

At first, only one side grows and aches, but soon the other begins also. As the breast grows accustomed to its new size, pain evaporates.

Just before each menstrual flow, female hormones flood the circulation swelling both breasts tenderly. They soon shrink, but not quite all the way.

Milk glands grow each month and eventually change into scarred, lump-like cysts. These cysts ache, especially when they swell before each menstrual flow.

Not Cancerous
They don't become cancerous, although a tiny cancer may be mistaken for just another cyst. The doctor will operate if there's any doubt.

Hormone medicines, which stop the normal cycle, can control the aching soreness until change of life relieves the pain.

Another flood of female hormones explains why sore, swollen breasts may be the first sign of pregnancy. As milk glands begin to grow, blue veins stand out on the tense, pale skin.

The Senate probes, headed by Senator John Stennis, D. Miss., and Senator Strom Thurmond, D. S.C., believe that at least some of these prisoners may still be alive.

They plan to air long-suppressed evidence, gathered during the Eisenhower Administration, that 200 of these prisoners were taken to Russia during the Korean war and may still be alive.

This unpublished information came from two widely different sources.

The first informant was a Chinese Communist prisoner of war. When questioned by U.S. counter-intelligence officials after his capture, he told of seeing 200 U.S. prisoners being

This Korean-Soviet junction point is where the narrow-gauged Korean line connects with the wider Soviet line. The prisoners were observed crossing the platform that separated the two lines.

The Chinese Communist soldier, who spoke English, said he not only recognized the prisoners as being American but also heard them speak.

The second informant was Yuri Rasvorov, a Russian MVD intelligence officer who defected to the West in 1954 while employed in the Soviet embassy in Tokyo.

In revealing details of a major Soviet spy network in the Far East, Rasvorov told U.S. intelligence officials that other authorities in the Soviet embassy had reported that U.S. prisoners of war were taken to Russia from Korea.

Armed with this information, committee members are planning to make an extensive inquiry into these reports. They plan to call U.S. officers who had interrogated the Communist informants.

The senators want to know what action, if any, responsible officials of the Eisenhower Administration took to corroborate these reports, and whether our government made any formal protest to the Soviet Union.

Troop Information—In their investigation of the Pentagon's troop information program, the senators will call as a witness Major William E. Mayer, a brilliant neuro-psychiatrist, who was a member of the task force responsible for the rehabilitation of American GIs brain-washed in Korea by the Chinese Reds.

In 1953, Army Intelligence rushed Major Mayer to Korea to study returning American prisoners who had cooperated with the enemy. He spent months with these men, probing their minds to learn why they had succumbed to Red brainwashing.

Major Mayer reached the conclusion that too many of the U.S. prisoners had lost the mental and physical toughness necessary to meet the Communist challenge.

He will be questioned about whether the present troop information and education programs are adequate to train U.S. soldiers to withstand Communist brainwashing in the future.

The Senate probes also plan to question some of the Pentagon's new panel of distinguished citizens. Secretary McNamara named the group to assess troop information programs.

Note: Since the Stennis subcommittee began its investigation, the State Department has dropped or abolished the jobs of four of the censors who made deletions in speeches of military officers.

Unreported Events—A veteran Southern congressman is being investigated by a third federal grand jury here. Impaired on orders of Attorney General Robert Kennedy, the jury is probing charges of kickbacks and bribery in a Defense Department ship repair contract in New York. The first two grand juries refused to return an indictment. A number of other individuals are involved in this affair.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk has warned U.S. Ambassador John Baeu in Cairo to watch for a move by top Egyptian officials to try to bring trumped-up charges against him similar to those brought against four French diplomats.

Defense Department scientists are quietly developing what they call the "ruby gun." In experimental tests, this death-ray gun has burned holes through two-inch thick steel plates. It uses shortbursts of radiation from an artificial ruby rod. Some scientists believe the gun can be developed into a "tank killer."

Interpreting Soviet Must Nix War To Satisfy West

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Western consideration of possible moves to reach an accommodation with the Soviet Union must, to have any validity, be based on an assumption that Moscow will not risk war.

No such assumption, involving the life and death of nations, can be made safely if made firmly. A firm assumption would only increase the danger of war.

There are world changes, however, involving relations within and strength outside the Communist sphere, which should encourage Western leaders to make contingency plans for swift and bold action if an opportunity arises to show the Soviet Union where the true road to profit lies.

For one thing, this involves intellectual escape from any fixed idea that, if the Soviet regime finds itself about to lose the cold war, it will resort to hot war to preserve itself.

It is the Soviet Union which takes the initiative in all matters which might produce a war.

It is the West which must make war if pushed to the point where extinction seems likely anyway.

Merely Back Away
The Soviet Union does not face that possibility. She would merely have to back away from some of her goals. Her life itself would not depend upon a decision to jump through fire.

It begins to appear that, since she has not, the Soviet Union will not be able to exploit nationalist revolutions and civil wars as she had expected.

It is the small powers which are taking control of the world's political affairs from the great powers, not the other way round. Would the men of Moscow, if they are sane, precipitate war in reaching for a hegemony which is highly uncertain of attainment even if they win?

Instead of changing her strained relations with Red China, a Soviet war with the West would invite Peiping to organize Asia under her own banner. She could build up a force which would vastly exceed the threat which the Soviet Union now faces from that direction.

Antagonism toward the whole white race, Russians included, still appears to be a far greater force than communism in Africa. An African-Asian military and political grouping against the so-called winner of a modern war would seem to be likely, with no more profit expectable by a Communist than by a capitalist winner.

The logic of practical materialism would, then, seem to lie against war at a time when the Soviet Union, faced by rebellion within the Communist sphere, dare not fall into complete isolation from the West.

A preponderance of reason does seem to lie on the side of an eventual compromise of the more extreme differences between the Soviet Union with the West, even though the Communist leaders seldom seem openly prone to reason.

Reeders Man Freed From Carbon Jail

JAY B. WELCH, Reeders, has been released from Carbon County Prison after furnishing $500 bail on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor.

The Monroe County motorist notified Carbon County Clerk of Courts Frank Wehr that he wanted to waive presentation of the charge before a grand jury and would enter a guilty plea in court as soon as a date could be set.

Welch was arrested by State Police at Lehighton on Jan. 22 after striking two parked cars on Route 29 and pleaded guilty to the drunk driving charge the next day when arraigned before Mrs. Melba Kobal, Lehighton RD 4, justice of the peace. He was jailed in default of bail.

Pocono Mountains Host To 700,000-Plus In 1961

MORE THAN 700,000 visitors vacationed at Pocono resorts last year, and it required another 30,000 people to operate these facilities, according to a study completed by the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau, an association of 251 hotels, motels, ranches and recreation facilities. In addition, the Bureau received and processed over 40,000 inquiries from the traveling public in 1961.

Current reports from the more than 50 hotels, motels and lodges now open indicate this to be the best winter season on record, with many of the better known resorts enjoying 90% occupancy during weekends in January.

Several Factors

Veteran Pocono operators attribute their increased business to several factors; first, the addition of new guest attractions such as the exciting sports car races on the ice held Sundays throughout the winter on Lake Naomi, Pocono Pines, Pa.; also, new thruways and a cold, clear winter have combined to create excellent driving conditions, making the Poconos highly accessible to metropolitan areas. In addition, many hotels have offered special winter package rates and have installed snow making equipment and the latest types of ski tows. Finally, there has been a marked trend towards winter honeymoons and conventions, family weekend winter sports jaunts, and group outings of colleges, fraternities, and clubs from the entire north-eastern area.

For details on qualifications for entering the sports car races on ice, or on any of the other Pocono winter sports activities scheduled for February, write the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau, 1018 West Main Street, Stroudsburg, Pa.

Pardon Board Rejects Plea

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Board of Pardons Wednesday rejected the freedom bid of Seymour Levin of Philadelphia, sentenced to life imprisonment in 1949 for the sex-killing of a 12-year-old boy.

The four man board, in executive session here, refused by a unanimous vote to free the 29-year-old Levin. The board ruled the petition was premature. It also cited the strenuous objections made by Dist. Atty. James C. Crumlish Jr., and his staff.

Project 70 Endorsed By Forestry Unit

HARRISBURG — Project 70, the state's comprehensive plan for expanded outdoor recreation development, has received endorsement by the Pennsylvania Forestry Association.

The Board of Directors of the PFA, unanimously approved Project 70 as thoroughly in line with the association's belief in the wise use of natural resources.

The principal feature of Project 70 is a plan to ring Pennsylvania's populated areas with "green belts" of parks and open spaces to be financed with a $70 million dollar bond issue. The plan also calls for the creation of three larger federal recreation areas, and the acquisition of important fish and wildlife land and water areas before they are lost to commercial and industrial development.

The Pennsylvania Forestry Association, at 75 years, the nation's oldest citizen's conservation organization, has a statewide membership of about 1,000 persons from all walks of life who are interested in forest conservation. It played a leading role in first establishing a state forestry department, in gaining fire protection for Pennsylvania's forests, and in establishing forestry schools in the Commonwealth.

Commenting on Project 70, Eugene F. McNamara of Stroudsburg, PFA president, said the association has always championed the wise use of resources "for the greatest good for the greatest number in the long run. We believe that Project 70, particularly by making Pennsylvania a more attractive place to live, will certainly be meeting this criterion."

Long Range Program
In other action, the directors adopted a long range program of policies and objectives. Among the objectives are: a continuous supply of timber from Pennsylvania's forests through timber management; a continuous and adequate supply of quality water through proper conservation practices; adequate outdoor recreation areas for the state's growing population; and expansion of legislative civil service protection for professional personnel of the Department of Forests and Waters.

Other points of the program include: stepping up tree planting so the remaining 800,000 acres in need of reforestation are planted within 20 years; expanding forestry research to find better ways of managing and using forest resources; and strengthening the School of Forestry at Pennsylvania State University.

The forestry group passed a resolution expressing regret at the recent death of George H. Wirt of Camp Hill, Pennsylvania's Chief Forest Fire Warden for many years and the man most responsible for the establishment of the state's fire protection system.

The 1962 annual membership meeting was set for June in Eagles Mere. Continuation of the "Good Outdoor Manners" project featuring "Howdy", the raccoon symbol, was approved.

VA Looking For 11,300 Questionnaires

THE VA announced that approximately 11,300 income questionnaires still remain to be received. All veterans, widows, and custodians or guardians of children should complete the questionnaires and return them to the Veterans Administration as soon as possible.

If these income reports are not received before February 1, 1962, payments will be suspended and the beneficiaries may be required to pay back all payments they received last year. A. G. Palmer, VA Regional Office Manager, urges anyone who needs assistance in completing their income questionnaires to visit the local VA Regional Office, 19 North Main Street, Wilkes-Barre, or one of the Contact Representatives providing itinerant service to distant areas. The Wilkes-Barre Regional Office is open Monday through Friday from 8:10 a.m. to 4:50 p.m.

One county is slated to be called in the February draft—as compared with nine during January.

On the pre-induction physical examination side, 35 youths are scheduled for physicals—exactly the same number as were given physical examinations last month.

According to Selective Service records, all 36 registrants will come from local board 105, Stroudsburg, and will report to Wilkes-Barre on February 19.

Probation Given In Manslaughter

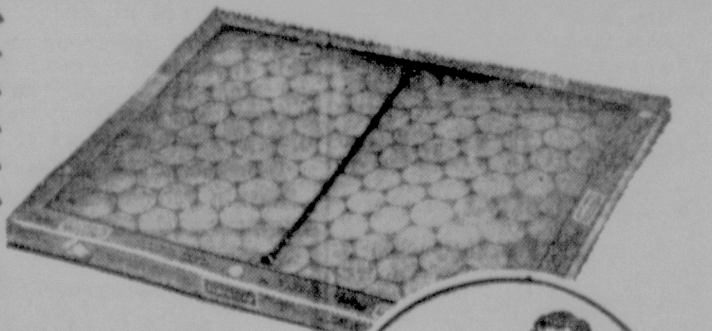

TOWANDA, Pa. (AP) — Joseph J. Yost was placed on five years probation and directed to pay the county $5,000 Wednesday as a result of pleading guilty to voluntary manslaughter.

Yost entered his plea Jan. 24 in the death of Kenneth Vanderpool, 38, Towanda. Yost said he shot Vanderpool last Sept. 9 in Yost's Spring Lake, Pa., cafe.

Judge James W. Cullen handed down the suspended sentence after hearing testimony in Bradford County court Wednesday. Yost claimed Vanderpool and some companions came into the cafe and threatened to wreck the place. He said he shot in self defense, that his gun was aimed at the floor merely to scare Vanderpool. Yost said he called state police when Vanderpool and his friends threatened him, but that they arrived too late to prevent the shooting.

Sterling Native Supports:

Groundhog 'Prophet' Site

By PEGGY BANCROFT
Daily Record Reporter

LA ANNA — A vote in favor of Punksutawney as the site of the first official Groundhog Day was cast yesterday by Lee Kipp, a Sterling native who was a street car operator in that Jefferson County town at about the turn of the century.

It seems that Quarryville, in Pennsylvania Dutch Country, has contested Punksutawney's claim to fame via "The Prophet," but, according to Mr. Kipp, there's no doubt that Punksutawney's claim is a valid one.

Recalling the origin of the first Groundhog Day, Kipp points out that it was in 1902 or 1903, Elmer Frees, a sporting goods shop owner, was the spark who started the club, with the blessing and sponsorship of the Elks.

Kipp, who now makes his home with the Ray Smiths at LaAnna, notes that "as a street car operator, I knew every man, woman and child in town, and most of the dogs, too. I remember that the active early members of the Groundhog Club were Doc Hughes and Doc Means, dentists; Harry Edelblute and Dick Clover, who ran the Pantel Hotel; Tim Kurtz, a coalman; and Ed Schwartz, a tailor.

"I can still see them on Groundhog Day. They would parade up the street, dressed in Prince Albert coats, grey trousers, high silk hats, and carrying canes and spyglasses. They went out to Gobbler's Knob on Canoe Ridge, where the Prophet holed up. After their ceremony, things calmed down until evening, when there was an open house at the Elks Home, and a banquet. We had fried chicken, fried groundhog, and groundhog punch. The punch was a concoction made of everything but the hair of a groundhog, and it sure made you sit up and whistle!

"The fried groundhog was meat captured the year before and frozen at the local brewery. It tasted just like fried chicken in an oily sort of way."

Remembers 1888 Blizzard
Born in February 21, 1881, in Sterling, Lee Kipp clearly remembers the blizzard of 1888, when he and his family lived in the Barkman house in Sterling. The snow was so deep, and the weather so cold that the snow crusted, so that he could walk into the second story windows of his home on top of the drifts. His father, a blacksmith, fashioned a forerunner of today's sleds out of barrel staves and a box, and the youth had a grand time in the record snowstorm.

His reminiscing about Groundhog Day and the Blizzard of 1888, during February in the Poconos, may also be prophetic. Perhaps the Groundhog can tell!

Rockwell Backer Is Arrested

SUNBURY, Pa. (AP)—Seth D. Ryan, 23, of Arlington, Va., was arrested Wednesday as he passed out handbills protesting the cancellation of a speech by George Lincoln Rockwell at Bucknell University.

Ryan was fined $25 by Alderman E. W. Lantz, and ordered to jail for 10 days when he said he could not pay it.

Lantz said Ryan was charged with violating a city ordinance dealing with distribution of handbills, and the contents of the leaflets were not an issue.

The handbills described Rockwell as leader of the American Nazi Party. His scheduled appearance Wednesday at Bucknell, which is located in nearby Lewisburg, was called off by the Student Forum, a student organization. The student group said the cancellation followed protests from civic and patriotic organizations in the area.

The handbills protested the cancellation on behalf of the American Nazi Party.

Quality Buyers Ask For Breyers

Dear Abby

Tell Her What, Lady?

Dear Abby: I live across the street from a high school girl. She is a quiet girl, but I understand that's the type you have to watch. I see her coming home from school every afternoon. The same boy walks her home. I notice that they walk down the street holding hands. Then they stand in front of her house and talk. She looks up at him like a sick cat. They have stood there and talked for as long as an hour. I can see trouble starting. Don't you think somebody ought to tell her mother? I was not spying. I was cleaning my Venetian blinds.

NEIGHBOR LADY

Dear Lady: You must have the cleanest Venetian blinds in town.

Kleptomaniac Canine

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y. (AP)—This is the story of Blaze, the kleptomaniac canine, a retriever who to speak.

He's so bad that the lost-and-found column on the local weekly newspaper runs a list of the various items he has "found." His somewhat embarrassed mistress, Mrs. William R. Robinson, operates the paper.

The swag this mixed-breed pup had dragged to her front lawn has included shoes, gloves, suspenders, jackets, trousers, and even dishes.

"Only today," Mrs. Robinson sighed, "Blaze came trotting home with a very nice crocheted black shawl. I hope whoever owns it will come around to claim it."

So far, the neighbors have been good natured about it. But his mistress promises a permanent dog house for Blaze, who's 3 months old, if he doesn't outgrow his habit.

General Election

FORT LAMY, Chad Republic (AP)—The president of this African republic, Francois Tombalbaye, has announced a general election for March 4 to pick a new National Assembly. He said the old assembly was politically outmoded.

Now go to work on your mind!

Dear Abby: What is your definition of maturity?

STUDENT

Dear Student: This is maturity: To be able to stick with a job until it's finished; to be able to bear an injustice without wanting to get even; to be able to carry money without spending it; and to do one's duty without being supervised.

Dear Abby: There is a relative of ours who is giving us all a pain in the neck with birthday parties "honoring" her husband every year. This woman is no kid. She's in her early forties. Her husband has just celebrated his 44th birthday. We can understand giving a fortieth or fiftieth birthday party, but what is all this nonsense of giving a 42nd, 43rd and 44th birthday party for a grown man? She makes a big deal out of it, inviting the family and all their friends, and it means a present every year. Don't you think she should grow up and leave the birthday parties to the children?

NAUSEATED

Dear Nauseated: An invitation to a party is not a command. You are free to decline if you wish. If such parties "nauseate" you—stay home and preserve your health.

Confidential To L. B.: You haven't a leg to stand on, so don't kick!

How is the world treating you? Unload your problems on Abby, care of this paper.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send cents to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

If someone had had one of those machines they use to measure the volume of applause in talent shows, I'll bet they would have raked up a record of decibels per square inch at the Woman's Club luncheon and card party yesterday afternoon.

Ordinarily, the volume of chatter at a woman's luncheon gradually rises in steadily increasing steps until the innovation, starting again on a lower key but stopping abruptly as the food is served. However, yesterday the serving was staggered with each foursome being served as soon as it was complete—so there never was any real break in the general conversation.

But there was plenty to talk about and the contents of the conversation were worth effort of trying to hear. There was a foursome down from the Tobyhanna Signal Depot which was fun, since ordinarily there's so much going on around there that the local women don't have much chance to mingle.

And Milford also was sharing their wealth at another table, while the Juniors, out to aid and abet the Seniors in their project, always make a decorative addition to any social scene.

As "a waif and a stray", that is someone without a foursome because I really couldn't stay, I had the good fortune to end up at a table with Marise Rumsey's soon-to-be mother-in-law, Mrs. A. T. Cassels, just in from Strathkiness, Scotland, for her son's wedding.

Landing at Idlewild at night she had missed the sight of New York's skyline which travellers the world over always talk about. They left later so she could fly down with Dr. Rumsey to see the city by daylight.

Another pleasant person to meet was Jesse Pierson's mother who has moved to an apartment in town and promises to be a happy addition to the community. Then there was Mrs. Jack Dunlap, who with her husband are now remodeling the old Levering home, and who provided the very delicious potato salad.

The bridge? Oh yes, it was a card party but at a public card party, the cards always take second place to the party itself. And that was lots of fun.

"What's new?" I asked hopefully of one department head, not for a moment dreaming she'd have ANYTHING new to mention on January 31st. But she surprised me. "We have some gorgeous little dresses, we're unpacking," she cooed. "Just gorgeous. But don't you dare say I said so. Just say you were looking around through the store and happened to see them. Say, 'I was shopping around and DER DEY VUS!'"

Personally, I don't know why she prefers to remain anonymous. Maybe she wants you to think she hates the things she bought to sell you... but I know differently. She couldn't. It's all just the way she said—gorgeous. However, I won't mention her name... not even her initials. I'll simply say that all this new merchandise is in the children's department and how can I help it if YOU know that Carrie Rusk is the department head?

All kidding aside, the new stock is just what the doctor has ordered for those of us who are weary of looking at heavy winter attire. When I tell you that the dresses come in Toddler and 3 to 6 sizes, and the manufacturers are Joseph Love and Kate Greenaway, I know very well you'll picture crisp pastels that will transform little girls into fluttery butterflies... and you are right! As Betty Smith, Alma Cyriax, Helen Dippe, and Marion Drake unpacked and ticketed the merchandise, everyone circled around exclaiming over the various styles, each somehow more charming than the last.

One little dress was immediately proclaimed as "just perfect for our Valentine window"... and it would be equally "just perfect" as a gift for your favorite little Valentine. Light tan, it is fashioned with a red and white overskirt, the pockets of which are decorated with hearts. What's more, the price is also appealing, for how many dresses of such magic appeal are only 3.98?

Another dear little dress, in a choice of pink and white or blue and white retails at 5.98, and comes with a tiny doll dressed to match its little Mother. Another, cut from the same fabric, I believe, is edged at the neckline and sleeve with a band of crocheted lace. There are matching gloves trimmed in the same way, and on the upper left shoulder of the dress there's a decorative cluster of embroidered strawberries.

I can't possibly begin to describe all the dresses... but each Kate Greenaway has its own hidden pocket for treasure. Each is designed in such a way it can wave a magic wand over any little girl and transform her into the flawless inspiration for a Hummel figurine. Each Joseph Love dress is pert and saucy, as is the joniell yellow one on my desk, ever-widening from a yoke that features a row of tiny pearl buttons beneath a round white collar. The skirt flounces widely, to reveal matching panties trimmed at each leg with the same rick rack that edges the hemline and peeps from the frilly edge of each sleeve. The fabric is Tempo, a wash and wear broadcloth, the pocket is tulip shaped and white, with painted features.

The girls also showed me some very good looking Spring coats of 100% natural wool, loomed in America, in a choice of solids or checks, sizes 7 to 14, at 10.98, and a smart swagger-type coat of Talbot wool, the ¾ sleeves edged with an over-lapping, down-turned stitched cuff, at 25.00. This would have caught my eye in any case because of its color—an indescribably lovely shade of Easter Blue. EASTER! Just mentioning the word is somehow frightening at this point, don't you agree?

Stroud Union Upsets Pocono Mountain; Warriors Defeat Millersville State 93-87

Overtime Charge Gets 7th Victory

A 12-POINT overtime performance led East Stroudsburg State College to a 93-87 win over Millersville State last night at Normal Hall.

The victory was the third in six conference games for the Warriors, who now have a 7-5 overall mark. It was the second straight victory for the Normal Hillers, who have averaged 95.3 points a game in their last three outings.

Millersville went down to its sixth league beating in seven games and its ninth over-all loss in 14 tries.

If it had not been for a late letdown, the Warriors would have finished off the Marauders in regulation time. But East Stroudsburg lost a five point lead in the final three minutes and had to battle back to gain a tie.

Hopewell Ties

With 40 seconds left in regulation time, Russ Hopewell, who ended with 17 points, bagged a jumper to tie the score 81-all and end the scoring until the extra five minute frame.

The Warriors wasted no time in the added period, jumping to a quick lead and limiting Millersville to only six points. Big Will Pfeiffer and Mike Kometa shared scoring honors with 24 points each.

It was possibly Pfeiffer's best game of his three-year college career. The 6-6 former Whitehall star not only was the top Warrior scorer but he pulled in 22 rebounds.

Scott Weaver had 20 points for East Stroudsburg and John Polonechak had 10 points, as all the Warrior starters reached double figures.

Three Leaders

Three Millersville players split 66 points, with Tom Weirich's 22 and Bill Bell's 20 trailing Kometa.

Kometa had 16 of his points in the first half but a good defensive job by Weaver in the second half, limited the Marauder to four field goals.

Weirich had only two points in the first half but ripped off 20 in the second half, including eight of nine foul tries. Millersville had only 13 foul shots in the second half.

Hopewell, who is closing in on the school's career scoring mark, was limited to only four points in the first half but came back with 13 points in the second half, including the tying basket.

Millersville won the junior varsity game, 74-67.

Imponderable Question

By William A. Doyle

Q. At least one automobile company has signed a contract with the union representing its workers, providing for "profit sharing." I understand that a number of other companies, in other industries, have made similar concessions to their employees. If this trend continues, won't it result in much smaller dividends for stockholders?

A. This is a topic that will be argued forever. Much depends, of course, on the specific type of profit-sharing arrangement in effect at each company.

When you get right down to basics, any payments to employees can be considered profit-sharing. Wages paid are the employees' share of a company's profits. Dividends, of course, are the stockholders' share of a company's profits.

Profit-sharing plans, through which employees receive any additional shares of a company's profits—above and beyond their wages—are not new ideas. Many such plans have been in operation, at various companies, for decades.

And, the consensus seems to be that such plans can work out very well—for the benefit of the companies, the employees and the stockholders.

If the employees covered by profit-sharing plans realize that profits depend upon hard work and that they won't share in any profits, unless they do their jobs well, such plans can be a real boon. If the employees take a real interest in the company and their work, profits can increase as a result of their efforts.

This makes stockholders happy, because they get higher dividends from the higher profits. And the value of their stock increases.

But, if the employees don't realize this, a profit-sharing plan can backfire. Unfortunately, some employees covered by such plans think of profit-sharing payments as part of their regular wages—something "the union got" for them. In these cases, the employees seldom make any effort to increase the company's profits.

Unless the employees understand the real meaning of profits and what profits can mean to them, neither they (the employees) nor the stockholders really benefit from profit-sharing plans.

Q. I have stock registered in my name, and my daughter's name, "as joint tenants, with right of survivorship, and not as tenants in common." My daughter left home some years ago. I have not heard from her. I want to sell this stock. Must I get her signature to do this?

A. Yes, you must, unless you can present legal proof of her death. When stock is sold, the signatures of the registered owners must appear either on the transfer form on the back of the stock certificate or on a "stock power" authorizing the transfer. The signatures must be guaranteed by either a brokerage firm or a commercial bank. Naturally, no broker or banker will guarantee a "signature" of your daughter's name, if she hasn't been around for years.

This may be an unpleasant thought. But, if enough years have gone by since you last saw your daughter, you may be able to have her declared legally dead. You had better see your lawyer about this. Don't make any move in that direction, without good, individual legal advice.
